BUILDING your FUTURE

An aerial photograph of a town, likely Wachusett Regional High School, serves as the background. Overlaid on this background are several Polaroid-style photographs of students. In the top left, a group of boys poses together. To their right, three girls are shown. Further right, two girls are smiling. Below the first group, a group of girls is seen, some wearing 'BOSTON SOX' shirts. To the right of that, a group of three girls is shown. In the center-right, a group of four students, including a boy in a white shirt and tie, is posed. Below the 'BOSTON SOX' group, a group of girls is shown. In the bottom left, a boy with glasses and face paint is shown, and below him, two girls are smiling. In the bottom right, a group of three boys is shown, and below them, two girls are shown. The text 'BUILDING Your FUTURE' is centered in the middle of the page, with 'Mountaineer 2008' below it. At the bottom right, the school's name and address are listed.

Retiree- Mrs. Wilcox

Mrs. Wilcox has worked at Wachusett for 35 years and graduated from Wachusett in 1969. She has spent her time working on developing the art program with her dedicated colleagues, including creating the AP Studio Art class. She says she will miss the kids and the daily routine, but not leaving early to get her prime parking place. Her plans after Wachusett include having a busy schedule, joining the substitute list, and maybe even trying something new such as designing floral arrangements.

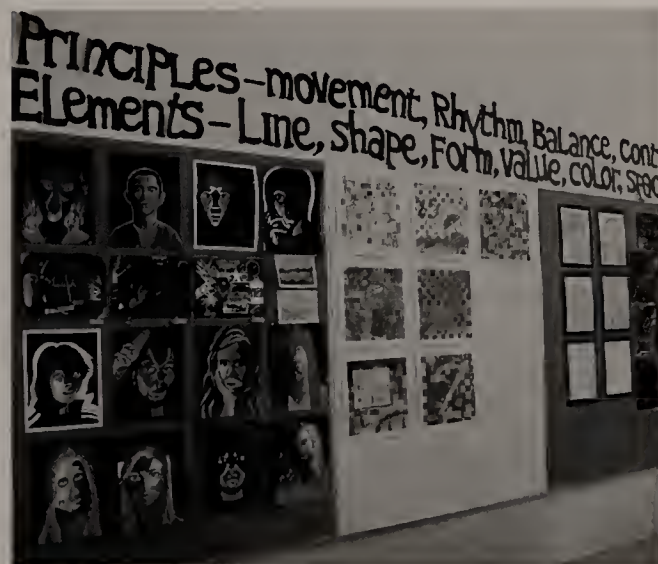

What have your years at WRHS meant to you:

My experience as an art teacher has been one of sheer joy! I loved coming to a place where I laughed, created art and taught students to explore their creativity. After the school day ended, my day at Wachusett continued as I designed, built, and painted sets for some wonderful Wachusett theatrical productions. I coached Ice Hockey Cheerleaders, sometimes getting home from games after midnight and getting right back up the next day at the crack of dawn to do it all over again.

Over the years, I have met many inspirational teachers, leaders who taught me to be the best I can be. I have been a contributing member of a thriving department known as one of the best Art Departments in the state of Massachusetts. I have learned to listen to others and to share. My students have challenged me to be on my best game every day.

My life is rich, a richness which I attribute to the thousands of students who have sat in my classrooms, to the awesome art work that still sends chills down my spine every year, to the Wachusett Family who is my family away from home, and to my Curran/ Wilcox family past and present.

I guess Wachusett has meant that learning never ends and that living life is a treasure. Today I learned that I am cancer free, celebrating four yours this month!- Charleen Wilcox

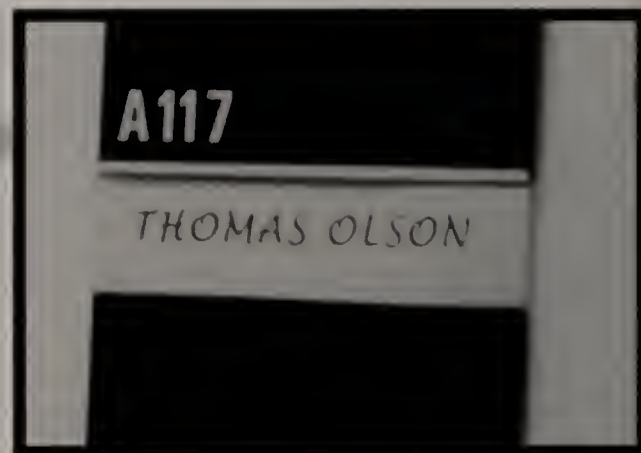

Retiree- Mr. Olson

Mrs. Olson has been at Wachusett for the past 10 years, and previously worked at Naquag Elementary for 24 years. At Wachusett he has enjoyed being at the larger school and the activities in general that the school offers. He has also been one of the driving instructors for the Wachusett Drivers Education program. He said that he loves Drivers Ed. because he was able to get to know the kids on a different level. Mr. Olson has seen the changes that the construction has brought. He says that before the construction it was sometimes embarrassing to show the school off, but now there is great pride showing off the school. While he will miss his colleagues in guidance and the students, he will not miss the stress that a case load of 300 students brings. With his retirement he plans on working with kids in some way since he is helping with tuition payments for his son at Georgetown, and because he is too young to sit at home and do nothing all day.

What have your years at WRHS meant to you?

I have many wonderful memories of Wachusett. I have had the honor of working with many bright and very talented students in my alpha. I have been equally impressed with the richness of the curriculum and all that it offers to our students. I know the rigors of our curriculum surpass those of most other high schools. Through my work at Wachusett I have made life long friendships with staff, students, and families- Tom Olson

CYNTHIA STARK

Retiree- Mrs. Stark

Mrs. Stark started working at Wachusett in September of 2004 and previously spent many years working at middle schools (primarily Chocksett). She has been heavily involved with the senior class as an advisor. She remembers many times how the class has come together to make things work, such as the 45 day party. She has also been impressed with demeanor of the class and has enjoyed working with the class. She also helped with the creation of Freshman Seminar. Like many retirees, she will miss her fellow faculty members and students, but will not miss the stress that the job brings. She plans on spending her time volunteering with the Holden Council on Aging, Girls Inc., and Meals on Wheels.

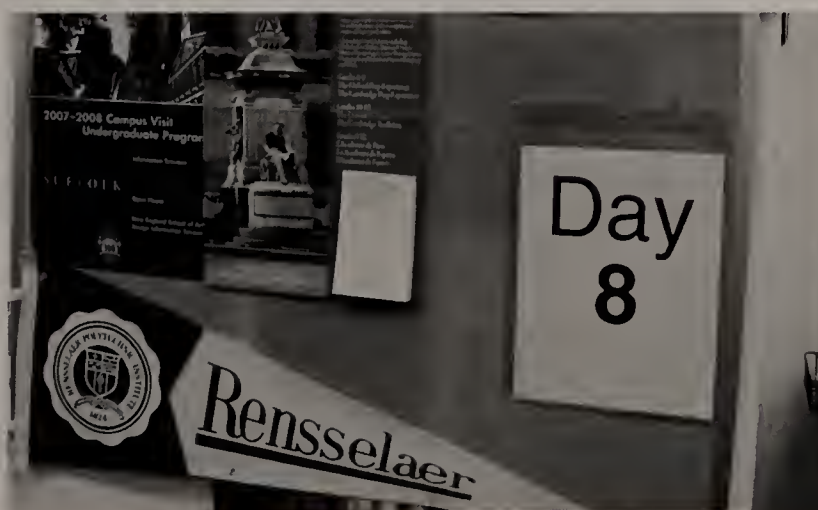

What have your years at WRHS meant to you?

The class of 2008 is truly an exceptional example of some of the finest young men and women I have ever met and it has been a privilege to be with them for the past four years, sharing their failures as well as their successes and watching them build character, become school leaders, and feeling very confident about their contributions to our American society in the future. GO CLASS OF 2008!

I have had the opportunity to work with a very dedicated, knowledgeable Guidance staff deemed to be one of the best in Massachusetts by a Director of Admissions at a local college. It has been wonderful to work with a group of colleagues who truly have the best interests of students at heart, will go the extra mile for them, and have the skills to deal with everything from mundane tasks to a full blown crisis.

Their support and expertise have helped to hone my skills as a counselor, hopefully for the benefit of my students. They have made the last four years special, memorable, and enjoyable!

-Cindy Stark

“I Remember When...”

REMEMBER THE 'VALUABLES BAG?' - MRS. BURTON

"I remember when during the construction if you needed to get to my computer lab or Mr. Klayman, Mr. Covello, or Mr. Coiffi's areas you needed to go up to the third floor of the old building, walk the entire way to the back staircase, all the way down the stairs to the dungeon, then outside, through the make shift tunnel to another staircase, up the stairs to have class. It took you 15 minutes just to get there. Forget it if it rained or snowed... you were either soaked or frozen!" - Miss DiLeo

"I remember when... the air quality from the construction project caused me to end up with pleurisy." -- Mrs. Paquette

"Remember when we used to use chalk?" -- Mr. Tarmey

"I remember when Darling D Block was throwing me a surprise birthday party-- Jim Valcourt was the designated liar to get me out of the room-- he told me there was a Humanities Collaborative emergency and Mr. Hilton need to see me. Jim was a terrible liar; he was pale and sweating and I knew something was up, but I cooperated... Jim's lying has improved- he actually tricked me this year with his Princeton story- I left the room and came back to find the room empty-- in came the class mostly wearing pink shirts in tribute yelling HAPPY BIRTHDAY and the festivities began." -- M. Worthy

"I remember when... we recreated the Hamilton-Burr Duel with Nerf guns in my sophomore US 1 class (2006)." -- Mr. Miller

"I REMEMBER WHEN WE PARKED CLOSER TO THE SCHOOL"
- P.E. DEPARTMENT

"I remeber when I scared one of my honors freshmen classes a great deal when, for an April Fools' Day joke, I put an unannounced research paper on a homework sheet. The class was panicking until I told them that it was a joke. Of course, Kyla Brown had alread started outlining her paper when I gave up the joke!" -- Mrs. Colwell-Arbour

"I remember when Evan Boulay was tring to teach me an easier way to text and Mrs. Knowles walked into my room and we had to do something quick slight of hand to keep from being busted." -- M. Worthy

"I remember when my cat stuffed animal was kidnapped and taken hostage. I remember subsequently recieving pictures and clues to the identity of the kidnapper(s)"- Mr. Tarmey

"I remember when... the windshield wipers wouldn't work on the way to BU"- Mrs. Sullivan

"I remember when... we learned how to Survive a Bear Attack in my junior US 2 class (2006)." --Mr. Miller

"REMEMBER THE NAMES OF ALL OF YOUR PRINCIPLES? ONE FOR EACH YEAR." -- P.E. DEPARTMENT

"Last fall's (2006) E block American Lit gave me a queen wand which made a magical bell noise-- and could not be turned off-- it would twinkle at the funniest times" -- M. Worthy

"Generally, I will always remember the Class of 2008 as the most outstanding class of my career, and I am deeply grateful for all of you, as kind, compassionate souls destined to change the world. I am so proud of you! " ~ Mrs. Paquette

A Day in the Life

English: Mr. Ingalls

"Diet coke is one things that gets me through the day. Some people need their coffee: They go to McDonalds, Dunkin Donuts, or Starbucks. I just reach back and pop open a can and chuck it when I get in. All is right with the world." In thinking back on his twelve years at Wachusett Mr. Ingalls remembers such events as September 11th and how the atmosphere of Wachusett changed so quickly. Further, he knows that even through the construction, Wachusett was still turning out talented students. Students that people should be proud off. Mr. Ingalls not only maintains his status as an English teacher, but also as head of Drama. "Theatre gets me up in the morning, and it gets kids up and willing to come to school." Coming into school 25-40 kids congregate in the theater tech room, and Mr. Ingalls, known as Doug to Drama, spends long hours creating their craft after school and making the school proud to have such a strong Drama department. Bouncing from show to show and preparing for the Mass Drama Guild, Doug works hard with the students and finds that it is rewarding in so many ways. He is also proud of the travel that Drama has done. "The students are strong ambassadors and we see the world through the eyes of locals, who open up to us." Even with all of the opportunities, he says, "People dont realize how good they have it at Wachusett. Not able to know what kind of school they have."

Math: Ms. Swidey

Ms. Swidey is a well liked math teacher at Wachusett. The thing that gets her through the day is her motivated students and colleagues that always make her laugh. Also the thought of her son waiting for her at home keeps her working hard throughout the day. She thinks many teachers do the same job as her but what sets her apart is her passion and perfection in her job. "If I didnt truly love what I do, I wouldnt be here!" Her day at Wachusett usually begins around 7:10AM and ends around 3PM depending on if students need extra help. She claims that the school work never ends because she is always looking for new problems to challenge the minds of her students. "I love teaching Geometry and Analysis. The Geometry material is very hands-on and student centered. Analysis has many opportunities for problems that force students to think and apply many concepts simultaneously. I also enjoy the students in my classes very much." Ms. Swidey is dedicated to her subject, family, and her students. She is a great teacher and role model.

Foreign Language: Frau Powell

Frau is the one nickname German students associate with their teacher Ms. Powell, who has been enthusiastically teaching for many years. The one factor that has kept Ms. Powell teaching is the great support from the Wachusett staff and faculty. Mr. Harold Lane, former principal, was one of the most helpful and influential. Ms. Powell said that he helped her both professionally and educationally. One of Ms. Powell's most admirable qualities is her dedication. She cares for her students and makes every effort to help anyone who is struggling. She keeps her students engaged in all activities and makes class enjoyable. Her dedication and her passion for the German language have kept her at Wachusett for twenty-three years. An activity that has kept Ms. Powell fit and energetic is the walk. Ms. Powell's two-mile power walk to and from school aids in her energetic teaching methods. Along with her colleague Mrs. Jennifer Weno, Ms. Powell led a group of students in the summer of 2006 to Germany for a three-week exchange. The participants were overjoyed knowing that she would be with them, and shocked when they realized that she was giving up her summer vacation to accompany them. That is dedication. She never thought that she would be teaching at the same school she graduated from. This was most surprising to her. Ms. Powell not only helps students in German but also gives advice and teaches valuable lessons which equip her students for the real world. She is kind and welcoming; truly a gem amongst the Wachusett staff.

of WRHS Faculty

"Most kids come to Wachusett with goals and ideas of what they want to do. The fun part is trying to help kids meet their goals. You don't have to supply them." Mr. Jourdain, commonly referred to as Mr. J, started working at Wachusett in the fall of 1997 and has become one of the most popular history teachers. While spending his career teaching facts and processes that have affected history, Mr. J still finds the interactions with the students are the most important part of the day. Even on bad days, he still finds comforts in his colleagues, which he calls his "safety valve". Along with the constant challenges that Wachusett brings with the job, he also remembers when the Nalgene became popular. With a desire to know what was so special about these water bottles, as his bonus one day he asked, "What is the deal with Nalgene bottles?" The most common response, "They are unbreakable." In attempts to prove that you do not need a Nalgene bottle to have an indestructible water bottle, he dropped his 76-cent water bottle and it shattered on the floor. The next day, a gift bag containing a Nalgene bottle appeared on his desk. Through the years he has dedicated more time to Model UN, and even when surrounded with controversy, spoke for the goodness of what the group stood for, and what skills students gain from the experience. "Perhaps for some, I have made a small contribution to their future. Another voice exposed to in life."

Social Studies: Mr. Jourdain

Science:

Mr. Guerin

Mr. Guerin has been a chemistry teacher for 5 years at Wachusett. He enjoys his job because of his students (and his subject). His favorite topic in chemistry is Stoichiometry. Stoichiometry, it's fun to say and teach. It just makes sense and ties every part of chemistry together. Mr. Guerin is one of the few teachers who arrives at the school around 6AM and will usually stay until about 3:30 or 4. His favorite part of the day is the morning. I am really focused at 6AM, I get more work done. After 4PM, my brain is like Jello. He likes to try to have fun by enjoying teaching and making chemistry interesting. Mr. Guerin remembers a day during his first year of teaching when he tried to enforce the dress code. "When I pointed out that a student's boxers were showing, he mooned me. Luckily it was only a half moon, but that was my oddest moment." Now that is one way to make a class interesting. He is always available if you need extra help. He tries to make a very difficult subject into one that all can understand.

Art:

Ms. Stangle

"Work ethic, communication skills, positive attitude, and heart are four things that I strive for in my classroom and myself." Ms. Stangle is one of many teachers that comprise the art department and also one of our class advisors. "I chose to work with this class because I knew many of them from working at Dawson, and many from living in Paxton." Through out the years she has helped with trips, proms, and the banners, which have won both in 2006 and 2007. "I have enjoyed watching the senior class grow and change over the past four years." She enjoys the new facilities and more importantly enjoys the comradely feeling of the art department and the feeling it gives to people. In her 7:00 to 3:30 schedule, she believes that it is important to have someone always in the art department, because creativity cannot be limited to a block in the day. She says that the art department is a great place to develop and that she has been privileged to watch students grow through art, and watch the senior class grow through the four years. "The class, generally, has grown and worked on the ideas of work ethic, communication skills, positive attitude, and heart. I believe that they are ready to go out the door, and into their new world of college. Come back and visit and tell us about your new lives!"

A Day in the Life

Music: Ms. Derkazarian

Days at Wachusett tend to be very long, especially in the music department. Ms. Derkazarian, or Ms. D, arrives when the bell rings but will stay until the sun goes down or later. Many would think it would be difficult to teach both band and chorus but Ms. D says it keeps her day from being monotonous. Since Wachusett is such a large school Ms. D hasn't had a chance to meet all of her colleagues, which is something she would like to do. Being a part of the music department enables Ms. D to plan events with the help of three other music teachers. She likes having the other music teachers to bounce ideas off and to talk to about different teaching methods. Diet coke and iced tea are what gets Ms. D through the day. Those two things really help especially when she needs to be here longer on concert nights. Ms. D thinks the unusual thing about her job is that at the winter concerts every December the band director gets to dance with Santa on stage. Even though Ms. D has only taught here for two years, she has gotten to know many of the students in the music program. One of the great things about the music program is that many students will participate for four years. This enables her and the other teachers to get to know the students as well as watch them grow and excel in music. Ms. D enjoys her job very much and has truly given the music department a new life.

Mr. Gribouski is a special education teacher at Wachusett. He greatly enjoys his job and is dedicated to helping all of his students. Much of his time is spent at the school. Outside of a normal school day he will come in on Tuesday nights and some Sunday mornings for activities with all of his students. Aside from being their teacher he will often fill in when parents can not. He will take students to visit other programs, job interviews, or help them connect with services they may need after leaving high school. He loves his job and is very enthusiastic about it. His least favorite part of the day is from 7-7:30AM because he can't wait for the day to begin. His favorite thing about his subject is the different things he can teach. "I teach employment skills and match students with potential career paths. The best part is when we finally work out a great match that benefits the employer and the student with rewarding experiences that will have opportunities that will keep growing with that relationship." He had an interesting experience during a lockdown drill when he was returning from an internship site and was locked out of the building. Mr. Gribouski shows passion in what he teaches and cares about each and every one of his students. "What makes my day is when one of my students finally masters a task that they have had difficulty with."

Special Education: Mr. Gribouski

Guidance: Mrs. Reilly

"Laughter ~ I like to find something to smile and laugh about every day!" Like everyone, guidance has been an important place for seniors. While students may see guidance as a place to solve problems with schedules or colleges, many do not see the jovial side to the counselors. The guidance counselors work together and get along well, and even manage to have some fun in between helping students out. "Guidance I guess is the same at many schools, but writing 70-80 letters of recommendation makes Wachusett different." Not only dealing with college recommendations, class placement and student problems make up most of her day. While these are some difficult issues they must be dealt with. Mrs. Reilly also is an advisor to the National Honor Society and agrees with many of the Wachusett populous, saying "I HATE early wake-ups!!"

of WRHS Faculty

"We have a quality department. We actually teach Physical Education, instead of just throwing you a ball and telling you to entertain yourselves." While many have vivid memories of running endless laps in the cold of December on the track, Mrs. Madelle describes the love she has for the school, and for the students she meets. For thirty-six years she has been teaching fitness to many kids, describing it as some of the most important lessons, since you need them throughout your life. She loves teaching gymnastics, volleyball, and fitness and enjoys the freshman that come in scared, but leave at the end ready to conquer the Wachusett Physical Education world. She finds the time to encourage others to be their best. She even spends afternoons teaching fitness to teachers, and finds every minute rewarding. "It has been a great career and I was one of the lucky few. I know this is a good place to teach and kids can get a strong education."

Physical Education: Mrs. Madelle

Administration: Mr. Pedone

While many dread the pass that instructs you to go to Mr. Pedone's office, his is one of the more dynamic characters that even with the negative issues surrounding him, finds time to highlight the positive. In the twelve years he has worked at Wachusett he has acquired many jobs including: evaluating 16 teachers, liaison for the high school with the bus company (any bus issues go through him), over seeing the PE department, being in charge of student parking, directing traffic, and 1st lunch duty. Most importantly he deals with the adolescent mistakes but says, "When I am busy, time flies." Being one of the administrators he says, that weird occurrences are part of the school but remembers one kid traversing the length of the cafeteria via tables. In his final comments on Wachusett, Mr. Pedone says, "If any thing else, it is a nice place to work, now that the construction is almost over. Four tough years, four plus years of construction and I see a change in the attitude because the fruits of the construction are seen."

Ms. Foss is a business teacher here at Wachusett. She is well liked by many students for her fun and upbeat personality. She begins her day around 7AM and leaves around 2:30PM but she will stay later for any of her students. The one thing that gets me through everyday at Wachusett is the students. Ms. Foss is dedicated to her job and her students. She wants to offer the most academic support she can. The strangest thing that Ms. Foss remembers since she has been here at Wachusett was the flooded temporary hallway that led to the café and the gym during the early construction phase. "My favorite thing about what I teach is giving students a solid knowledge of how to manage their personal finances. This is something that everyone needs to know in their adult life, and learning it in high school can surely help students when they go off to college or join the workforce." Ms. Foss is great influence on her students teaching them skills that they will use in everyday life.

WRHS Alpine Team had a great second season. Last year 3 athletes were in the states as independents. This season the Men's Team was in the States and 3 of the Women's team members were the States as independents. The Men's Team was 14th out of a field of 25 and the Women placed in the middle of the pack. The team as a whole improved on their race technique and had plenty of snow to practice on for a change. Three of our seniors are moving on this year; Jessica Rozek, Elizabeth Breen and Todd Grabek. The team wishes them all the best and thanks for their help in making this a great season. The captains for the team were Ben Meyers and Megan Davis.

Student Council is the student-led group responsible for representing all four Wachusett classes in school activities, in the community, and at regional and state levels. The council coordinates several school wide events such as Homecoming, Winter Carnival, and pep rallies. Throughout the year, we partake in community service projects as well as organizing events for the Wachusett Community. Some of the memorable StuCo events are Homecoming Spirit Week and pep rally, the selling of candy cane reindeer at Christmas, and selling carnations and decorating the school with hearts for Valetine's Day.

We try to educate WRHS students about international cultures and travel, and we welcome and work with the exchange students each year. We try and foster friendships between the exchange students and the WRHS American students in years past we have included international students as well as ESL or ELL students also living in our WRHS community as much as possible. So far this year we had a reception for the students, a Cultural Cafe night and in the spring we will have an International night. In December we will have a presentation about the Japanese Culture. We will also have a non profit organization come and talk about exchange program to our American student body in foreign languages.

Humanities Scholars

Joey Andrade, Gordon Clark, Channing Davisson, Sean Dowd, Samuel King, Katie Palmgren, Ann Salerno, Bryan Vangel, Emily White, Alden Wahlstrom, Gianna Wilkie

This is an academic extracurricular group. A student must apply and then be selected. The students focus on a theme and travel to four local colleges to hear professors speak on the topic. The Scholars then meet in groups with students from other schools analyzing the readings and the professors. In the afternoon we travel to a local place of interest.

Science Seminar is currently enjoying its 49th year at WRHS. The goal of Science Seminar is to expose students interested in science to a wide range of science topics, current research, and opportunities to improve their own research and experimental projects. This organization meets every Tuesday night from 7 PM to 9 PM. During the first hour, students listen to a speaker. Generally, the speaker is a working scientist sharing his/her research. Speakers are from all areas of science. During the lecture hour of Seminar students learn about current research. This allows them to gain more knowledge in all scientific fields. Students are also encouraged to evaluate other scientific and technological evidence and explanations. During the second hour, students work with advisors to get advice on their Science Fair projects. Advisors to Science Seminar are not WRHS faculty, but scientists from the community who volunteer their time and expertise.

Winning students at the WRHS Fair are eligible to attend the Regional Science Fair at WPI. Those winners go on to the State Science Fair at MIT. WRHS has had several students represent the state of Massachusetts at the International Fair.

THE MAGDALENE LAUNDRIES:

This year, the already four-time state finalist Wachusett Theatre Company did it again -- for the 5th year in a row, they were in the top fifteen high school drama companies in the state. They performed a brand new drama written by their very own Doug Ingalls. The story was inspired by the true yet horrifying tale of Ireland's "Magdalene Laundries". The Catholic Church began these institutions in the 1800s as reformatories for prostitutes, but they soon became a place where any girl who was a "shame" to the family (from teen pregnancy to mental retardation to simply being too high spirited) could be confined, made to work, and made to repent - to not only wash laundry, but wash away their sins. The only way out was for the person who put them there to get them out again- and many didn't. As appalling as it may seem, the last laundry only closed in 1996. More than 30,000 women were confined to these institutions in their time. "The Magdalene Laundries" follows one such woman's journey in a powerful and touching story.

COMPETITION PLAY

This year, Wachusett hosted the preliminary rounds of the 2008 Massachusetts High School Drama Guild One-Act Play Competition in our brand new facilities.

As a whole, the Company won numerous awards for acting, set design, and musical performance, as well as the coveted stage manager's award at semi finals, an award given to the most professional company at competition.

Foreign Exchange

Vivian S. Gossen
Germany

Aranza M. Lopez Diaz
Mexico

Lea Rossa
Germany

This year, Wachusett hosted three foreign exchange students; two from Germany, and one from Mexico (as pictured above). Cumulatively, the three girls visited amusement parks, local attractions, and numerous famous US cities, such as Boston, New York City, and Orlando, Florida. They all immersed themselves in the lifestyle of a Wachusett student for one year, enrolling in the same curriculum, making new friends, and even attending Homecoming, Winter Carnival, and Proms. They have each been a pleasure to have in our community, and we wish them all the best as they return to their home countries!

Vivian and Lea even made it to the class of 2008's graduation!

Madrigal Dinner

January 31, February 2 & 3, 2008

Madrial Dinner is a festive evening for all, presented by the Wachusett Music Department. For the 27th time, guests were welcomed to an Elizabethan Royal Court, served a seven-course meal by the Chamber Choir Maidens, serenaded by Wachusett Singers and Chamber Choir, as well as musical selections from Wachusett Orchestra and Wind Ensemble. This year's play, "The Wizard of Oz," performed and written by members of the aforementioned musical groups, added to the entertainment for the night. Guests and performers join together to go "wassailing," and later perform the lemon dance. A continual success, the Madrigal Dinner brings about fun, laughter and awe, as well as full stomachs!

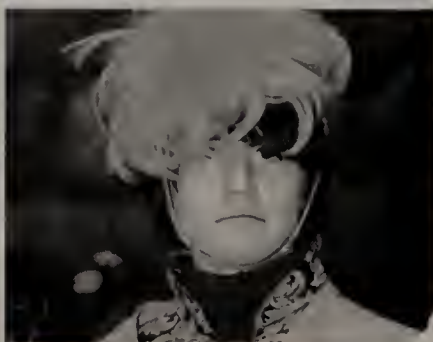

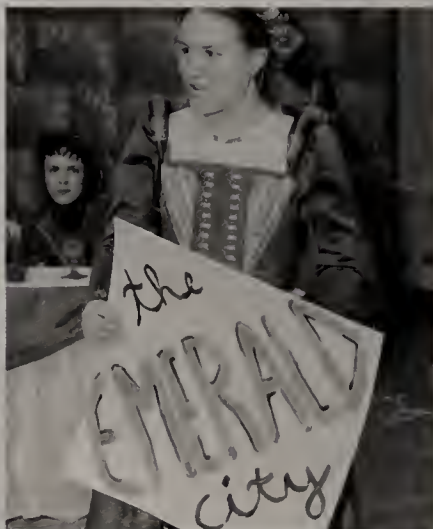

King and Queen of the Royal Court this year were Brian Scannel and Kate Sheridan.

Nicole Blanchette, Kelsey Graber, and Sarah Theurkauf were the head maidens.

Wassail, wassail,
all over the town,
Our toast is white
and our ale is brown,
Our bowl it is made of the white maple tree,
With a wassailing bowl
we drink to thee!

Into the Woods

This year's spring musical was quite a memorable one. Not only was it the Theater Company's first musical in the newly renovated auditorium, but for the seniors, it would also be their last. One of the most difficult shows to put together, the Company pulled it off without a hitch, bringing the fairytale of Into the Woods to life.

CONSTRUCTION

From the first day of high school up until the very last, the Class of 2008 has spent their days in a facility that changed as often as they learned and grew. History classes were held in weight rooms, English teachers competed with jackhammers and dump trucks during their lectures, and chairs even fell through science lab floors. However, each passing day spent in plastic and plywood hallways only brought us closer to the beautiful, new, and improved (however long delayed) Wachusett we know today.

Hangouts

These are some of students' favorite places to spend their time when they aren't stuck in school...

Friendly's is a great place to grab some food and ice cream

Movie theaters offer students a place to sit down, as well as entertainment.

Anywhere coffee is served, such as Starbucks, Dunkin Donuts, and Sweets and Java, seem to hit the spot.

Students also find it relaxing to get together with friends at one of their own houses.

Sporting events, both professional and at Wachusett, are a great way for students to get pumped up while their favortie players get down.

CONGRATULATIONS, CLASS OF 2008!

Saturday, June 7, 2008

DCU Center, Worcester

It's been a long four years for the Class of 2008. We've gone in and out of hallways that constantly changed, and met new obstacles every day. But through all of the challenges of moving around and shifting, we somehow made a niche for ourselves - a place we can always call home. And as the school developed and grew, so did we. As a class, we have faced it all, and are now adults ready to face the world head-on. Although we may branch out in different directions, we must remember that we all came from the same roots.

"Don't cry because it's over. Smile because it happened." Dr. Seuss

Matt Riley

Welcome Speech

Dr. Pandiscio, members of the School Committee, Mr. Beando, Wachusett faculty, parents and graduates, welcome, all of you to commencement for the Class of 2008. Fellow classmates, you and I have exemplified our dedication to Wachusett by being here today to receive the diplomas we have worked so hard for. Every year of our high school career it seems as if we have gone to a different school because of all the changes Wachusett has gone through... But all of these changes that have surrounded us didnt change us as a class. I realize that I will never again be able to address all of you like this... For this reason, we need to take advantage of this last time that we are together as a class. Theres probably going to be some classmates that you used to see everyday that, sadly, you will never see again or that you will very rarely see. Use this summer to your advantage as well Hang out and just enjoy your life, but please dont do anything you will regret. The opportunities and freedom you have had thus far will most likely be very rare opportunities in the very near future... I hope that you will always be yourself. Throughout our entire lives, we are all sadly judged by so many different people who base their judgments on things like race, religion, or appearance. I was told that once you are born, you are like a unique, clear marble, in other words uniquely your own person. Throughout your whole life, so many different people are going to paint you, as a marble, many different colors or impose their own vision of you. No matter how people look at you, you will still always be your own unique marble, or self. Ive noticed that when people look at me for the first time they stare in awe. After they get to know me, they tell me that they perceived me at first as a bully, because of the intimidation of my physical presence. But most of you know who I am and what Im like. That is why you cant judge people by appearance... If you put your heart and mind into your goals, you can accomplish almost anything, including speaking at your high school graduation. Recently, one of my favorite films, "The Iron Giant," was on the television. The protagonist, Hogarth Hughes tells the giant, "You are who you choose to be." Take that quote to heart. Choose your own image, your best image to show to the world. Ladies and gentlemen, I wish you the best of luck I truly love you all!

Honors Address - "Acording to Plan"

Dr. Pandiscio, Mr. Beando, parents, siblings, relatives, guests, and fellow graduates:...I have had many great experiences in high school, but I have also had some that I would rather forget. Everyone here has shared these experiences: not making a team, not finding a homecoming date, not doing so well on a midterm. Oftentimes we are embarrassed by these occurrences. We would rather just pretend they never happened, but we later come to appreciate that they probably happened for a good reason. In this spirit, I would like to whisk the skeletons out of my closet... I would like to thank Coach Wallace for allowing me to set a school record. To my knowledge, I am the only athlete in Wachusetts storied history to be cut from a non-cut sport. Last spring, coach told me that missing more than half of our meets for science fairs and orchestra concerts probably was not a good idea, and maybe it would be better if I came back in the fall for cross country. I was disappointed at first, but I can see now how that extra time after school every day allowed me to focus on my work at a critical time in my high school career. My point is this: our paths from this point will differ greatly. For some of you, everything will go exactly as you anticipate. Your lives will fall neatly into place, and you will be fantastically successful and wealthy without even trying. For the rest of us mortals, life will not always be so smooth and scripted. We will make mistakes, fall away from our master plan, and change direction entirely. We will bomb the big job interview, lose our close senate race, and even completely jinx our chances for winning the Nobel Prize by touching the one a speaker brings to our high school. (Still cant believe I did that.) Through all of these failures and disappointments, however, we can take courage in the knowledge that our problems have little cosmic importance. The world will care little about our minor shortcomings; rather, it is our legacy written in the lives of those with whom we associate that counts. Our worth is not judged by the frequency of our failures but by the good that we do despite them. Ladies and gentlemen, honored guests and the class of 2008: I hope that your lives do not go according to plan. They are far more interesting and rewarding when they do not. Thank you, good luck, and congratulations!

"Off to Neverland"

Its hard to find the perfect words to describe today. What wisdom can I impart to my classmates, if I have any right to be imparting wisdom at all? Anything I say has surely been said before and will be said again. Such is the nature of wisdom. Go confidently in the direction of your dreams; live the life you have imagined. Be the change you want to see in the world. All you need is love. All beautiful sentiments, and yet somehow these ideas arent the ones that fully click for me. No, the most appropriate and all-encompassing statement I could find didnt come from an author, philosopher or artist. It came from a little man in green tights. Today is, as they say, the first day of the rest of our lives. But no matter how excited we are about the future or how thrilled we may be to have made it to today, theres still a little part of every one of us that says, I dont wanna grow up. How ironic, that the best sentiment I can offer on this day of maturity and adulthood comes from a movie from our youth! Nevertheless, Peter Pan had a point. Growing up is scary. Growing up is hard and tiresome and at times altogether terrifying. And it is human nature to fear change. Yet, change is the most prevalent aspect of our lives. Our high school experience is nothing if not an example of that... So were changing. Its the most frightening and exhilarating experience imaginable. And while you may approach this change with joy or trepidation or some combination of the two, keep in mind that some things, the important things, will never change. Your friends may change, but you will always surround yourself with the people who bring you happiness. Your relationships may change, but you will always remember the gifts that people brought to your life. You may change, but you will never forget who and what made you who you are. And so, my wisdom is this: We must remember that this day is not about growing up, or growing old, or growing apart. It is simply about growing. With faith, trust, and a little bit of pixie dust, we will move on and continue our journey towards becoming who we truly are. And while I said my advice couldnt come from a writer or philosopher, Ralph Waldo Emerson said it better than I ever could: May you laugh often and love much. May you win the respect of intelligent persons and the affection of children; earn the approbation of honest citizens and endure the betrayal of false friends. May you appreciate beauty, find the best in others, and give of yourself. May you leave the world a little bit better. So, Class of 2008, no matter what changes life has in store for you, may you follow your bliss wherever it leads - even to Neverland. Congratulations!

"Another Day, Another Door"

Theoretically, as students in a public school, we have completed 720 days of learning over the course of our careers as Wachusett Regional high schoolers. Take away snow days, sick days, frequent fire alarms, and finals, and we have the culmination of the studies, stresses, and senior privileges of 468 individuals. That is less than 700 days that weve had to find a firm grasp on our future while maintaining a steady grip on the present. Every trivial moment since the first Wednesday in September 2004 -- writing seven-page critiques, two a.m. procrastination sessions, locker-switch days, prom drama and convoluted bell schedules has had an impact on where we find ourselves today. We entered through one set of imposing doors, so worn and old that they caught many an unsuspecting freshman on their heels if they werent fast enough. Some of us were confident in what lay ahead, and others had absolutely no idea why we were all forced into a dungeon. We left two weeks ago through different doors, slightly newer, at the end of a hallway that we watched develop, tile by tile, until it became an indelible component of our high school. Today, as successful graduates of the class of 2008, we celebrate our own individual achievements, as well as each previously forgotten moment that had an impact on our progression into young adulthood. Hidden amongst the sea of green and white polyester are 468 futures influenced by the experiences of 468 pasts that have intertwined over the last twelve years... Every time we see an abnormally large amount of green, in the back of our minds will undoubtedly be the Badlands, whether you were the one fully decked out in face paint, running up and down the bleachers, or a member of the band, playing through freezing nights on the edge of the brand new Astroturf. We've all attempted to explain our unique mascot, and we've all eaten in a gymnasium. These small, coalescing experiences that seemed invisible to us as we walked through the halls now surface, as we stand on the brink of our separation; on the brink of our futures... Standing here today, I have little doubt that no one is about to turn back now. (Some of us couldnt wait to burst out the doors while they were still under construction.) While recalling each significant moment, however, it is crucial to proceed with fervor for life and pursue our capabilities to their limits. We arrived here today to bring closure to the latest chapter of our lives, and we will leave to apply the past four years of our lives to the years that follow. 720 school days ago, today was inconceivable. Today, it is just another life-defining day. Congratulations to the Class of 2008.

"Revised Formula, Same Great Taste!"

... In writing my speech I struggled with what to highlight about my experience at Wachusett, and found that I led only a marginally interesting high school life. Striving desperately to avoid a clichéd sentiment of forward-thinking optimism or nostalgic remembrance of good times passed, I hope I offer one of my high school experiences with which most young people can identify. Like many high school students, I spent the better days of my senior year working part-time. I could tell you my occupation as a gas station attendant is a magnificent one, inspiring and well-paying, but this is not the case... It is generally societys youth subject to the cool judgment of those who often leave this earth in a state worse than the way they found it. For those questioning specific instances of this, I could cite the legacy left to us of exorbitant fuel costs, the lack of a health care program, and an ailing social security system, as well as others. Id prefer to avoid sounding pessimistic, but merely express the scope of issues inherited by my generation. I dont mean to say the majority of adults condescendingly view the worlds youth. To do so would be grossly unfair to the core group of educators, mentors, family, and all others who ardently and sincerely work towards an improved posterity... We will all meet with hardship, all will struggle, and yet there is the potential for unlimited achievement. This country is not one free from guilt or pain, injustice or indoctrination, and neither are any of us. Starting however, with the notion that young people are inherently ignorant, irreverent, or insincere is an injustice not just to us but to the adults who have led us, who have constructed the system in which we will thrive or fail, who have driven us to complacency or revolutionary change. I regret that my message may not be one of total optimism, on a day that certainly warrants it, but I believe this generation has the capacity to construct an impressive future, just as previous ones have done. Our focus need not be how are we going to make it, but rather how are we going to make it better. As one customer told me youre young and have a lot of learning to do. I admit this fully, and I hope that disregarding the desire to categorize, classify, and convict, so will each one of you. I wish you all the best on your future endeavors and if our past is to be the basis of our future success, I am confident there is much to look forward to. Ladies and gentleman thank you, and good luck.

Colophon

The Mountaineer is an annual publication by the Yearbook staff at Wachusett Regional High School, 1401 Main Street, Holden, Massachusetts, 01520. The towns served by the high school are Holden, Paxton, Princeton, Rutland, and Sterling.

The book was printed in Winston-Salem, North Carolina at the Jostens Publishing Division. The press run was 460 copies. The cover was designed for our staff by Rick Brooks of the Creative Resources Department of Jostens.

Our cover is Custom Litho, Combo 595. Trim size is 8.1 by 11. Cover material is High Gloss Litho 478 with Process Color 317 and Uv Coating Cover 350 with a sand grain.

The paper used throughout the book is 80 pound gloss, printed with standard black ink. Thirty-two pages were printed using the standard four color process. Assorted fonts were used at the discretion of the page editor.

A current events supplement, World Beat, produced by Jostens, has been sewn into the book after page 272.

Senior portraits were taken by Wayne Myers and his associates of Myers Studio, Sterling, MA, the designated official yearbook photographer. Other professional and non-professional photographers did some of the senior portraits. Athletics, clubs, and major school events were photographed at no charge to the yearbook by Myers Studio. Additional athletic, academic, and candid photos were taken by members of the school community. O'Connor School Portraits photographed the underclassmen and staff and made these photos available to the yearbook staff at no cost.

The cost of the book includes publishing costs, freight charges, shipment of materials to North Carolina, and other supplies. The per copy cost to the public is $80.00. Monies are raised through an assessment to the senior class per student, parent ad campaign, and the proceeds from two soda machines.

These 272 pages are representative of the entire Wachusett student body and their community.

THANK YOU'S

This book has been made possible through the hard work and help of many people.

First, I would like to thank Wayne and Bev Myers of Myers Studio for all of their help this year. They have helped out with the photos in every section of the yearbook. Wayne and his staff made submitting senior portraits easy for both the students they photographed as well as the senior section editors. Moreover, Myers Studio was always available to come to sporting events, plays, and senior functions to take photos. They were very helpful in working with the students to set up a day to take pictures of the all of the Clubs at Wachusett. They always came through, even when asked at the last minute. Their prompt return of photographs helped make it possible for us to meet our deadlines.

Secondly, I would like to thank Peter Greer, our representative from Jostens Publishing. I have worked with Peter since I began doing yearbook and he has been an incredible resource. Peter has always been there to help, answering emails and phone calls very promptly. He helped calm my fears of doing yearbook as the only adviser, and has come through and helped any time I needed it.

Thanks also to O'Connor School Portraits for photographing the underclassmen and faculty. And thanks for getting those photos to us quickly and on CD!

Next, there are several members of the Wachusett staff that have helped to make this yearbook possible. Thanks to Bill Beando, for always being able to meet with me when I had so many questions early on in the year. Thanks also to Amy Kathman, Ginny Belcher, and Donna Laramee for helping with class lists, homeroom lists, faculty lists, looking up student schedules, and anything else we needed. Thanks especially to Donna Bradway for being so helpful with the financial aspects of yearbook. Thanks Ed and Peter for getting us computers for the office. Thanks also to all the club advisers who were prompt with getting us information and patient when we asked for some of it again. Thanks to all of the coaches for getting us team records and season write-ups. A huge thanks to Rosemary Laverdiere for all she taught me last year that I was able to carry into this year. Terms like page ladder, double page spread, and divider page were foreign to me in September 2006 and are now part of my every day vocabulary. Rosemary taught me so much about putting together the yearbook and I don't know how I would have done it without her help!

Lastly, and most importantly, I would like to thank the awesome 2007-2008 yearbook staff. I have seen so much growth in these girls over the past year. We started the year with a group of girls that came from very different social circles. I cannot believe how well everyone came to know each other and see beyond those social boundaries. I have never seen a group of people work so well together. These girls never failed to surprise me with their hard work. When we were very close to deadlines, everyone put in their all, despite their busy lives, to get the book finished in time. To the senior section editors, Kyla, Alyssa, Fioleda, and Chelsey, you girls worked so quick to get your section finished! You used creativity and teamwork, and should be very proud of your section. Maggie and Kristen, you had so many great ideas for the academics section. I know you were right for that position because I learned (quickly) that you are not afraid to confront teachers in order to get what you need! Jenna, and the Chrissies, you girls showed serious dedication this year. After you first laid out the pages, I tried to show you how to use Panel Flow. You did not want to lose our original (awesome) layouts, so you hand placed the pictures of all 1,500 underclassmen!! Your hard work has paid off, the section is great! Jenna, thanks for coming back to school to photograph, even after you were finished! Sarah, Kathleen, and Mel, no boring layouts for you girls! Each of your pages is unique, thanks so much for all your hard work! Sarah, thanks for keeping in touch even after graduation and reading my million emails each day! Jenny and Kelly, you girls have been great with getting and loading pictures, and finding out team records and all that. It has been great to know that I can have faith in you and you will get it done! Amy, Erica, and Meagan, your unique layouts rival those of the student life section! Thanks to the yearbook general staff members who helped us out in the fall. Your hard work and hours spent tallying votes are much appreciated! And finally, Amanda and Renee, our editors-in-chief, between Amanda's great baking skills and Renee's great eating skills, you made an awesome team!! Seriously Amanda, did you cook those brownies in an Easy Bake oven? You were both wonderful as motivators, moderators, and proofreaders. I could always count on you to be sure everyone would get their job finished on time!

To the class of 2008, please thank the girls who made this yearbook possible. No matter how far you travel, you will always be able to look back at this yearbook and again remember what it was like to be a member of the Wachusett community.

Thanks so much,
Lauralynn Scigliano
